

Craft Now in Moon's Grip

Lunar Lander Ready to Fly

Apollo's Destiny Only Hours Away

HIGH DRAMA will unfold with the landing tomorrow afternoon of the Apollo 11 Lunar Module. (L.A. Times)

Luna No Threat, Soviets Promise

By ROBERT J. ANGLIN
Staff Writer

HOUSTON—Apollo 11, arching magnificently toward the moon, goes into lunar orbit at 1:26 this afternoon.

It passed a mission milestone shortly after 11 last night when it entered the Moon's sphere of influence. This is the changeover point when the pull of the Moon's gravity on the spaceship is stronger than the Earth's.

This came after another day of smooth sailing in space for Astronauts Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins, highlighted by an hour and 36-minute telecast that far exceeded expectations of Mission Control.

The space fliers yesterday climbed into their lunar lander to check it out and found it all set for tomorrow's Moon landing.

"Everything seems to be in place," said spacecraft Cmdr. Armstrong.

"The vehicle is surprisingly free of any debris floating around. It's very clean," seconded "Buzz" Aldrin, the man who will accompany Armstrong on the Moon walk while Collins flies the command ship in a 69-mile-high lunar orbit.

The astronauts were also informed that the Russian satellite Luna 15 would not interfere with the trajectory of the Apollo spacecraft at any point.

Luna 15 was circling the Moon at an altitude varying from 35 to 127 miles and this relatively close proximity to the proposed Apollo 11 orbit led space official Frank Borman, who recently visited Russia, to telephone the Soviet Union twice for the flight track of the Soviet space vehicle.

Academician M. V. Keldysh, president of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences, cabled back assurances the orbit of Luna 15 would not intersect with the "published trajectory" of Apollo 11, but gave no hint of the purpose of Luna 15—nor was he asked about it.

APOLLO Page 4

ASTRONAUT EDWIN E. ALDRIN SCANS A CHECKLIST IN APOLLO 11 during unscheduled telecast yesterday, 200,000 miles away (UPI)

'Hello There, Earthlings'

By THOMAS O'TOOLE
Washington Post

HOUSTON—Getting closer and closer to the Moon, the men of Apollo 11 yesterday showed the world what it is like 200,000 miles out in space.

For one hour and 36 minutes, astronauts Neil Armstrong, Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin and Michael Collins took television watchers on a tour of their two spacecraft and gave them a spectacular view of a

Apollo TV Schedule

Today's scheduled Apollo programs:
1 p.m. — Ch. 4, 7 — Entry into lunar orbit
4 p.m. — Ch. 4, 5, 7 — From spacecraft shimmering earth in living color.

"Hello there, earthlings," Collins said.

"It's really a great picture," astronaut Charles Duke replied from Houston's Manned Spacecraft Center.

"Now you know how we feel up here," said Aldrin.

Passing their portable color camera from man to man, the moon-landing crew gave a worldwide television audience the clearest view yet of the interiors of the Apollo command craft and the two-man LEM landing craft.

SPACE TALK
Page 4

N.E. Power Helps Cool New York

New England utilities yesterday helped avert a possible major blackout in the Northeast by shipping reserve electricity to New York and other cities faced with a power crisis because of a four-day heat wave.

Sweltering city-dwellers caused the crisis by running their air conditioners non-stop. Television placed an additional drain on power supplies as millions followed the progress of the Apollo 11 moon mission.

HEAT
Page 22

Birth-Curb Aid to Poor Is Advocated by Nixon

By CARROLL KILPATRICK
Washington Post

WASHINGTON—President Nixon reported to Congress yesterday on the "bleak realities" of the population explosion and proposed new attacks on the problem nationally and through the United Nations.

An estimated 5 million low-income women of childbearing age in the United States "do not have adequate access to family planning assistance," the President said.

However, the indications are that they want to receive it, he said.

"It is my view that no American woman should be denied access to family planning assistance because of her economic condition," the President said.

"I believe, therefore, that we should establish as a national goal the provision of adequate family planning services within the next five years to all those who want them but cannot afford them . . . to achieve this national goal, we will have to increase the amount we are spending on population and family planning."

BIRTH Page 22

Riverbed Caves In —19 Children Die

Associated Press

ANGERS, France—Nineteen children drowned yesterday while bathing in the treacherous Loire River.

Police said the shallow river bed gave way under the children's feet and they were swept into a whirlpool of gravel and water.

By sundown 10 bodies had been recovered and police said there was no hope of finding the other nine alive.

DROWNING Page 14

POLICE ARTIST'S portrait of Playboy Club murder suspect.

Robber Slays 2 At Playboy Club

By JEREMIAH V. MURPHY
Staff Writer

Two Playboy Club executives were shot to death early yesterday in a robbery attempt at the Park Square night club. A $10,000 reward was later offered for the arrest and conviction of the killer.

Dead are Robert Hershman, 28, of Brook House, Brookline, director of the club's Living Room, and Roger Howes, 27, of 141 Waterston av., Quincy, an assistant manager.

PLAYBOY Page 22

Namath Recants, Agrees to Sell Bar

United Press International

NEW YORK—Joe Namath ended his retirement from the game yesterday by knuckling under at last to the order of Pro Football Comr. Pete Rozelle that he sell his interest in a New York bar said to be frequented by "undesirables."

The announcement, made jointly by Namath and Rozelle, came exactly six weeks after Namath had tearfully announced he was "retiring" rather than how to Rozelle's order.

This time Namath was wreathed in smiles as he and his attorneys ended the last of several meetings with Rozelle since last Sunday. Namath insisted that he still believes there isn't "anything wrong" with Bachelors III, the bar, but otherwise the settlement appeared to be a complete victory for Rozelle.

"Mr. Rozelle and I got together and resolved this thing by me selling Bachelors III," said Namath.

Joe explained his change of mind about selling by saying that since his retirement "so many other people" had become involved in the situation.

NAMATH Page 17

Stores Will Open

Boston department and specialty stores will be open for their regular hours Monday, July 21, according to the Retail Board of Greater Boston.

WEATHER/INDEX

Relief Column

SATURDAY — Cooler, less humid. SUNDAY — cloudy, high in 70's. (Page 25).

High Tides
2:54 a.m. 3:24 p.m.

Features

Book 16
Bridge 23
Churches 8
Class. 24-33
Comics 15
Crossword 15
Deaths 10
Editorials 6
Financial 11-14
Obituaries 23
Sports 17-22
TV-Radio 14
Theaters 16
Women 9

Baseball

AMERICAN LEAGUE

BOSTON 6, Baltimore 1.
Oakland-California, n.
Seattle 2, Minnesota 1.
Minnesota-Seattle, n.
Chicago 6, Kansas City 1.
Detroit 4, Cleveland 0.
New York 5, Washington 0.

RED SOX TONIGHT

Baltimore at Fenway (Phoebeus or Cuellar vs. Siebert or Culp), 7:30 p.m. TV—Channel 5.

State OKs UMass Campus at Columbia Point

The state Board of Higher Education yesterday approved and sent to Gov. Sargent a $150 million plan for building part of the University of Massachusetts Boston campus at Columbia Point by 1972.

If the Legislature authorizes the capital outlay, 5000 students could attend classes at the new campus in September 1972, according to Richard M. Millard, chancellor of the board.

The first phase of construction would include a library, classroom and laboratory buildings, an administrative center, dormitories and a student union.

Another $221 million would be required to enlarge the campus to accommodate an enrollment of 15,000 by 1980.

UMass-Boston Chancellor Francis Broderick said the proposed timetable would shave several years from the time cus-tomarily needed to complete a state project of this size.

Broderick said the state Bureau of Building Construction would have to act with speed to meet the target date.

The site is undeveloped land adjacent to the Columbia Point public housing project on the shore of Dorchester Bay.

What Is It?

PINK POODLES

Gorgeous natural color . . .

This Want Ad was placed in The Globe by a Norwood woman. She said the two poodles she is selling are definitely pink.

If you're in the market for a pet, try Globe Classified. The Globe carries twice as many lines of pet ads as its competitors combined. So try Globe Classified. You'll be glad you did. It's New England's most powerful advertising medium.

Call 282-1500
To place a Classified Advt.
in The Globe